Islamic Leadership Competencies from Abdullah Ad Dumaiji's Perspective

Abstract. This research discusses the competence of Islamic Leadership adapted from the thoughts of Shaykh Abdullah Ad Dumaiji in the book al-imamatul udzma 'inda Ahlu as-Sunnah wal Jamaah or translated Imamah Uzhma Islamic Leadership Concept. This research uses descriptive qualitative research methods, this research is also library research. In other words, researchers look for books, writings, or documents related to the theme then researcher organize them into a topic of discussion with analysis. Shaykh Abdullah Ad-Dumaiji said that there are at least eleven requirements to become an imam. They are Islam, puberty, reason, independence, male, knowledge, justice, self-sufficiency, physical prowess, not ambitious for the Imamate, and descent from the Quraish. He explained his inclination towards the view that the one who is more capable of realizing the objectives of the Imamate is the one who is more entitled to be appointed as Imam, whether he is the best or not the
